AFRICAN MUSLIMS IN THE AMERICAS

Michael Gomez, New York University

Director, Association for the Study of the Worldwide African Diaspora

Tuesday, September 18, 2007

7:00 p.m

Langone Center Forum (LC 272)

The Muslim experience in the Americas long antedates contemporary discussions and challenges surrounding matters of security, pluralism, and so-called civilizational conflict. In fact, African Muslims began arriving in the Americas from the very beginning of European "voyages of discovery" and nascent colonialism. While most were enslaved, some were free, and in every instance they were distinguished from other Africans.
