

Anthropology Career Path --- Career Development Center

Mrs. Shela Geiss used her degree in Anthropology from Bucknell University to become a county Attorney in Rochester, NY. While networking was unimportant for Mrs. Geiss, she says law school was imperative. A typical day in Mrs. Geiss' career includes researching in the office, preparing cases, solving problems for the county and going to court. She enjoys being in court, but finds the lack of public knowledge about attorneys frustrating. Mrs. Geiss recommends her career to those who have an interest in problem solving. If given the chance to do it all again, she says she would do it differently, as there are a lot of careers out there that don't require graduate school.
