Bucknell University’s International Friendship Host Family Program is a terrific opportunity for students and ‘host’ families to meet people from other countries, share cultural exchanges and learn new things together.

Being far away from home, sometimes for the first time, can be really trying! Here’s your opportunity to make an international students feel like a part of the family!

FAQ’s

Does the student have to live with me?
No, all students live on Bucknell campus. This host program does not include the housing for students but you are welcome to invite students to stay with you over breaks.

How much time should I spend with my student?
Students and families alike can choose the level of interaction, providing all with an opportunity to share culture and community. Some families invite students over for dinner in their home while others will meet for concerts, festivals, hiking or do trips out of town.

Can I choose where my student is from?
You can specify a preferred country in the application and through our matching process we will try to meet your request. However, you may be placed with a student based on similar interests, depending on the student demographic.

Do I have any responsibility for my student?
No, students and families usually create friendships and in that way they become part of your family.
