Semester at Sea Reinstatement

The Committee on International Education has decided to reinstate the Semester at Sea study abroad program beginning spring 2012.

Bucknell University students can once again apply to study abroad on the program. Students must, however, note that many Bucknell University departments will not award credit towards graduation for Semester at Sea programs. Please make sure to discuss your intention to study abroad at Semester at Sea with your academic and study abroad advisors before applying for it. Semester at Sea will continue to be an early deadline program. Check the study abroad deadlines for details.
