Students:

Applications are being accepted for the Bucknell Institute for Public Policy Summer Research Internships. All full-time Bucknell students are eligible. Awards are not available for the summer following the senior year, whether or not the student has been graduated. Students in 5-year programs will be eligible during the summer after their 4th year. The Institute is offering summer research internships in the social sciences for summer 2016. Potential projects range from quantitative to qualitative analysis in policy-relevant areas. Chosen applicants will be matched with a faculty mentor and work as a research assistant on a specific project. The projected work will be a minimum of eight weeks during this upcoming summer. Interns will stay on campus for an 8-12 week period, work a minimum of 32 hours per week, attend weekly workshops and present the research project on campus at the Sigma Xi Poster session and/or the Susquehanna Valley Undergraduate Research Symposium (SVURS) in August 2016. The student will receive a $3000 stipend and on-campus housing (subject to appropriate withholding taxes).

To apply, please submit: cover letter, resume, letter of reference and copy of unofficial transcript to Meg Martin: mcm039@bucknell.edu.

Application deadline is Friday, March 4, 2016.
