

Philosophy Career Path --- Career Development Center

Mr. Robert H. Glatstein, '74, used his degree in Philosophy to become a motion picture editor, who has worked with Paramount Pictures. Glatstein says that graduate school and entry-level experience aren't crucial, as there is a lot of on-the-job training, and he recommends the field to anyone who enjoys movies, has good people skills, is creative, and can tolerate financial insecurity. While the self-marketing is frustrating in his field, the outlet for creativity is Mr. Glatstein's favorite part of his career; he confirms that he would do it all again, if give the chance, because he enjoys traveling and meeting different people. Glatstein says that networking was extremely important in his field, though he had no networking through Bucknell University.
