SUPPLEMENT

This supplement lists all of the people who have been actively associated with Bucknell, as members of the Board of Trustees, Faculty, and Administration, since its founding. This information is contained in the chronological part of the supplement. As an additional means of quick reference, the second part of the supplement is an alphabetical listing so that it may be referred to in order to ascertain if a particular person is still actively associated with the University. Periods of service and changes in positions can be found in the chronological part. Present addresses and occupations, if known, are given in the alphabetical part. Detailed information about Bucknellians will be found in the general alphabetical section in the front of the directory.
BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY was founded in 1846 under the name of the University of Lewisburg as the result of a movement to establish a college, started in 1832 by the Northumberland Baptist Association, which was composed at that time of some seven churches in the vicinity of Northumberland, Pennsylvania. In 1845 the association adopted the resolution that "It is desirable that a literary institution should be established in central Pennsylvania, embracing a high school for male pupils, another for females, a college, and a theological institution." Lewisburg was decided upon as an ideal site for such an institution, and application for a charter was made. The charter was granted by the Legislature of Pennsylvania in an Act approved by the Governor on the fifth day of February, 1846.

The management of the University is committed to a Board of Trustees that is self-perpetuating. The charter provides: "That said trustees shall not for any cause, or under any pretext whatever, encumber by mortgage or otherwise the real estate or any other property of said institution; that no religious sentiments are to be accounted as a disability to hinder the election of an individual to any office among the teachers of the institution, or to debar persons from admittance as students."

In the autumn of 1846 instruction began in the basement room of the old Baptist meeting house at Lewisburg. The first president was Stephen William Taylor, LL.D., who served during the first five years of the University's existence, from 1846 to 1851. In 1849, the first building on the present campus, now the Stephen William Taylor Hall, was ready for occupancy. Main College, later partially destroyed by fire, was the second building to be erected, the West Wing being completed in 1850 and the remainder of the building in 1859. The first class, numbering seven members, was graduated in 1851. In the same year Howard Malcom, D.D., LL.D., became president. Dr. Malcom served from 1851 until 1857, when he was succeeded by Justin Rolph Loomis, Ph.D., LL.D.

In June, 1863, at the time of the second invasion of Pennsylvania by Lee's army, students and professors enlisted in a body, and the college halls were vacant for six weeks, until they returned, after Lee's retreat, in time to hold the annual commencement exercises.
In 1879 President Loomis ended his long term of office and was followed by David Jayne Hill, LL.D., Litt.D., D.C.L., the first graduate of the University to become its president. In 1883 college courses were opened to women, and the first degree was conferred on a woman in June, 1885. In 1886 the name of the institution was changed to Bucknell University in honor of the late William Bucknell of Philadelphia, who had served for many years as a trustee and was then the chairman of the Board of Trustees.

In 1889 John Howard Harris, Ph.D., LL.D., D.C.L., entered upon the presidency. His thirty-year term of office was a period of constant growth. Physical equipment was greatly increased, especially through the construction of ten new buildings, the curriculum was very much enlarged, and faculty and student body were multiplied several times.

The administration of Emory William Hunt, D.D., LL.D., D.C.L., which began in 1919, was marked by a steady increase in the number of students and faculty. Large additions were made to campus, buildings, equipment, and endowment, and during his term of office Bucknell was placed on the approved list of the Association of American Universities and was granted membership in the American Association of University Women.

Homer Price Rainey, Ph.D., LL.D., became president in November, 1931. During his administration, the School of Music was merged with the College, and general survey courses were introduced as a required part of the curriculum. In 1933 the Bucknell University Junior College at Wilkes-Barre was established, and the Literature Building was constructed as the first unit in a long-range plan of building construction.

In October, 1935 Arnaud Cartwright Marts, LL.D., was appointed acting president, and in April, 1938 he became president of the University.

THEOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT

In 1855, a Department of Theology was organized, and continued for thirteen years. The first class graduated in 1857, and the last class in 1868, when the Department was discontinued in favor of Crozer Theological Seminary, located at Chester, Pa. The Alumni of this department, at the time of the change, were constituted Alumni of the newly created Theological Seminary.
